

Editorial

---

Dear Readers,

As we turn the page to 2025, it is with immense gratitude and excitement that we reflect on the accomplishments of the Turkish Journal of Nephrology throughout the past year.

In 2024, we successfully published a total of 58 articles across four issues (January, April, July, and October). These included 35 Original Articles, 8 Reviews, 9 Letters to the Editor, 2 Reports, 1 Images in Nephrology, 1 Editorial Comment, 1 Opinion and 1 Editorial.

This variety highlights the diversity of research and perspectives that contribute to the field of nephrology, and we are grateful for the dedication of our authors, reviewers, and editorial team who made this possible.

Our journal also continues to foster international collaboration. In 2024, we were privileged to receive manuscripts from 32 countries, reflecting the global reach and impact of the Turkish Journal of Nephrology.

This year we will remain committed to upholding the highest standards of scientific integrity and fostering innovation in nephrology research. We extend our heartfelt thanks to all our contributors and readers, and we look forward to another year of collaboration and discovery.

We wish you all a happy, fruitful, and peaceful new year.

Sincerely,
Editor in Chief
Rümeysa Kazancıoğlu, MD
